Boy Wins Radio Quiz

Gene Riefsnyder of Beiseker won $10.00 in cash and a $50.00 credit note from Universal Sales when he was the first to telephone in the correct name of the tune being played over the radio on the program, Universal Teluguiss, on June 15. The $10.00 was given to his mother who is a patient in the Holy Cross hospital, Calgary.

Gene is the grandson of Mr. John Leiske, Level Land reporter for the Beiseker Times.

Clifford Schaber arrived home a few weeks ago from Barrian Springs, Mich., where he attended college last term.

Crist Roth of the Level Land district is a patient in the General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Fox and family, daughter of John Leiske, who used to live in Washington, D.C., recently moved to Houston Texas. Mr. Fox is employed as a salesman for television.

OVER $500 DONATED TO CANCER DRIVE

BEISEKER—The 1952 Canadian Cancer Society Drive, which was under the sponsorship of the Health and Welfare Committee of the Beiseker Lions Club, was the biggest success to date. The grand total of $508.25 was the result of the good work done by the following canvassers in their own respective districts: John Leiske, G. G. Berreth, Ed Schwartzberger, Chris Schmaltz, Peter J. Hagel, John Howden, Mrs. M. Schiessel and Mrs. E. B. Hagel. May the Health and Welfare Committee take this opportunity to thank all those people who so generously donated to this worthy cause, and especially those who gave of their time and efforts to make it the success that it was.

BILL TIDY NEW LION PRESIDENT

Bill Tidy, elect, takes over his duties as the Lions Club President beginning July 1. He succeeds K. A. Wright, who has been the president for the past year.

Work has begun on the material which will be used in the construction of the various structures for the new sports grounds. It will only be a matter of a few days before the residents of the district will see the results at the new grounds. Work on this project is progressing favorably, but more co-operation and help is needed if it is to continue. So why not make it a point to give the community betterment committee your assistance in one way or another when asked, or better still give your name to Mr. Matt Schmaltz. Remember their time and efforts are donated too.

THIS IS R. A. (Rube) Hornstein, officer in charge of the Dominion Public Weather Office in Halifax, who discusses what makes the weather, and why, in the broadcast series Ask the Weatherman, heard on Sunday (CBW 5:20 p.m. CDT, CBK 4:20 p.m. MDT, CBX 3:20 p.m. MST). In his program he debunks—or upholds—old weather theories handed down through the centuries, and gives colorful, up-to-date explanations of anything from drizzle to hurricanes and Chinooks. For seven years he has broadcast a similar program for Maritime listeners.

Keoma Lions To Sponsor Picnic

KEOMA — Keoma Lions will sponsor a sports day Friday, June 27, at 1 p.m. Fastball tournament, Irricana vs. Kathryn, Keoma vs. Chestermer, Lyalta vs. Wimborne. There will be $115 prize money. Children's races at 3:30 p.m. Children under 12 free admission.

Sports committee members are Bill Midgytte, Harold Block and George Randall. Dance at night.

ticket on the Lions' Raffle Car had better do it soon because the supply is limited. Let's not forget that 1,000 tickets are all that's going to be sold, proceeds of which go toward the Beiseker Lions Band and the Beiseker Memorial Hall Fund. The co-operation of everyone in this effort is needed and will help make this a much better community in which to live.

Work on the Beiseker Lions Sports Day to be held Wednesday, August 6, has also begun, with plans for this big annual event well under way.

The Boys and Girls Committee members are an energetic and enterprising bunch when it comes to kids. Anything for the kids is their meat. They have just purchased baseball equipment to the amount of $25.00 in bats, balls and catcher's body protector. The boys are now playing scheduled ball games under the capable coaching of Lions Bill Ternes and Lorne Bunyan. It is a revelation to see the enthusiasm that is put into these games by the Pee-Wee players. They are the senior ball team and citizens of tomorrow, so let's keep on working to give them that proper training for the struggles of tomorrow.

CYO Players To Present "The Miser" In Banff July 4

BEISEKER — The Beiseker CYO Players of Saint Mary's Parish have received an invitation to present their version of Moliere's comedy "The Miser" in Banff on Friday evening, July 4. This presentation will be a part of the social program of the "Dandelion" College being conducted by the Catholic Youth Federation at the Banff School of Fine Arts during that week. Although many of the Beiseker and Acme districts residents attended the presentation of this play some months ago, a public performance will be put on at the Beiseker Memorial Hall on Sunday evening, June 29, promptly at 8:30 p.m. All who have not seen the play and any others who may wish to attend are given a cordial invitation. Although the main purpose is to give the young actors an opportunity of acting before an audience prior to their Banff debut and no charge will be made, a silver collection will be taken up to defray current expenses and to help with the costs of taking the show to Banff. All help in this way will most certainly be accepted with sincere gratitude.

Miss Margaret Albert, Daniel and Peter Schmaltz and James and Leonard Hagel plan to attend the Dandelion College in Banff for the full course of instructions and recreation.

Former Residents Visit Beiseker

BEISEKER — Mr. and Mrs. Steve Nicholas of Bow Island and Mr. and Mrs. E. Kaupp and their daughter, Darlene, were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Schmaltz and other friends in Beiseker.

Mrs. Kaupp is the former Emily Nicholas and went to school here in her younger days. Her father was a former grain buyer for the Pool Elevator in Beiseker. Mr. Kaupp is the proprietor of the hotel in Coaldale and he reports the town is growing fast. They are going to have water and sewerage in Coaldale this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lyczewski motored to Bow Island for the week-end. They visited with Frank's parents and one of his aunts who was visiting there at the time from Portland, Ore. That was the first time Mr. Lyczewski had ever seen his aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Fisher and children are visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Schmaltz. Mr. and Mrs. Wilf Hogg are also visitors at the Pete Schmaltz home. Mrs. W. Walker and daughter, Betty, former residents of Beiseker, now of Calgary, were visitors here for the week-end.

Miss Lima and Leonard Schmaltz were visitors at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Schmaltz.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Reynolds of Burnaby, B.C., were visitors at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Tennant.

Congratulations go out to Mr. F. A. Lount, he being the lucky winner of the Chesterfield suite which was given away at the Acme dance on Friday evening.

Prepare for Beiseker Sports Day August 6. Irricana Sports Day will be July 4.

Suffers Crushed Hips In Tractor Accident

LEVELAND — A week ago a tractor was upset 12 miles east of Beiseker and one-quarter mile north of Sam Leiske's home. Donald Reid was the driver, and a farm hand of Fred A. Tetz, Donald is from Sault Ste. Marie.

The lad lost control of the tractor when he reached for his lunch pail which was about to fall to the ground. The tractor rolled over and pinned Donald down, but happened to bounce back once allowing him to wiggle out, but he laid helpless beside the tractor while it caught fire.

It was fortunate the wind came from the south. No one witnessed the accident, but Roger Tetz, son of Theo Tetz, working in a field near by, was first to notice. He ran to Sam Leiske's to phone for help, as there were no men at Leiske's at the time.

Art Beibrich and Melvin Kindopp were first at the scene. Mrs. Leiske tried to get doctors, but all happened to be away attending a convention. Stairs' ambulance was called at once and Donald was taken to Calgary General Hospital.

It was found that both hips were injured, one being crushed quite badly.

Donald's mother arrived from the east and is with her son now. It is understood she will move Donald home as soon as conditions are favorable.

Red Cross Campaign Far Exceeds Quota

BEISEKER — The secretary-treasurer of the Beiseker Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society has received the following commendation from the divisional headquarters, extending congratulations to the local branch and the Campaign committee for exceeding the quota in the 1952 drive.

"With a quota of $1250.00 and with the results to date of $1468.04, you may be assured that the officers of the Division are very proud indeed and certainly most indebted to you for the excellent organization which must have gone into your drive. We have the pleasure in enclosing our Official Receipt No. 2651 in the amount of $1258.04.

"We would appreciate any comments that you would like to make in respect to the Campaign as we know that your success will definitely help others who have not as yet reached their goal."

The letter is signed by G. A. Shave, Assistant Commissioner.

As quite a number of grain pledges have not as yet been fulfilled this splendid record could be even more impressive if it were possible to collect all the grain pledges without any defaults.

Deep Sea Explorations

A few weeks ago the British research vessel, H.M.S. Challenger, dropped a weighted wire to a depth of almost seven miles in the Mariana Deep, about 200 miles southwest of Guam.

Exploring under the sea did not begin until the latter part of the eighteenth century. Early equipment used for measuring depths included a heavy weight and a line about half inch in diameter. Each time a measurement was desired, it took hours to lower and raise the weight.

The next method was of American origin: thin twine and a weight that detached itself when it hit bottom. The twine was followed by piano wire. In 1874, it was believed that an American ship set a speed record of measuring a five mile depth in two and a half hours.

Winding by hand was replaced by steam winding engines. The next development, echo-sounding, came about the time of the first World War. This process involved delicate instruments which measured the time that it takes sound echoed from the sea's bottom to reach the surface. By figuring the speed at which sound travels, depths can be determined.

Deep sea explorations have revealed that the Pacific is full of holes known as "deeps". A few examples are the Mindanao Deep (34,000 feet), the Tuscarora Deep (32,000 feet), the Kermadee Deep (31,000 feet), and the Solomon Deep (30,000 feet).

It has also been learned that many river channels, such as the Congo and the Indus, continue as deep canyons far into the ocean. Many such canyons have been found off the Atlantic Coast of the United States.

According to Dr. Hans Peterson, Director of the Oceanographic Institute of Goteborg, Sweden, in another billion years, new continents will appear in the middle of our present oceans. Dr. Peterson believes that the Atlantic Ocean will retain its well known S-shape, "but a new continent would appear along its whole length so that there would be two Atlantic seas."

Buying A Car In Britain

An example of the economic strain through which Great Britain is now passing was indicated recently when a spokesman of the British automobile industry asserted that British customers must wait five years for a new car from the date of order until delivery.

The reason this long wait is necessary, he explained, is that the bulk of production is now exported to earn much-needed foreign currency and goods. Therefore, the average British customer must wait several years before the small supply of new cars available in England provides him with a new vehicle.

Rationing and most of the war-time economic controls which were long ago discarded in Canada, are still necessary in England. The Conservatives, who came to power last October, have not removed these economic controls even though they are the party of private enterprise in Great Britain.

British citizens still get only a few ounces of meat a week, only small amounts of gasoline, at a high price, and even a limited supply of clothing, shoes and so forth. The average American, who can buy a new automobile or a new suit of clothes without any government interference, sometimes fails to appreciate the hard times which are still prevalent in Britain.

Though Canadian taxes are undoubtedly too high and though they should be reduced as soon as possible, it is nevertheless sobering to realize that the plight of the mother country is so severe, seven years after the end of World War II.

An Interesting Ride

Captain "Tug" Wilson, pilot of a commercial airliner which stops at Johannesburg, South Africa, recently experienced a ride he will not soon forget. As the pilot's plane reached flying speed and was leaving the airport, the radio operator noticed that a green snake was curling around the neck of the pilot.

The snake was none other than the dreaded mamba, a deadly African snake, and the radio operator, with the aid of another crew-member, managed to dislodge the snake, which coiled itself around the control column and struck at Radio Operator Rice, its fangs striking his collar. All the while, the pilot was scrambling to get back into the airport so that he could surrender his small enclosure to the mamba. From the control column, the snake fell on the instrument panel and then to the floor of the ship. It then vanished.

After the plane was landed, it was located and killed in a locker-room. The plane then took off again, with one less passenger, and much less excitement. It would probably be safe to say that the pilot will never experience a more devastating take-off and landing, and that he holds some sort of rare distinction in the annals of aviation having taken off with a rare African snake around his neck.

Why Editors Go Gray

When the local Baptist minister was leaving for a new charge, the congregation of a small Western Ontario town selected an ornamental mantel timepiece as a farewell gift.

To the horror of all concerned—the editor included—the local weekly reported the ceremony as being "climaxed by the presentation to the Reverend Clark of a handsome crock, which the recipient accepted with obvious delight and emotion."

Co-operative Farming

(From the Calgary Albertan)

Word out of Saskatoon this week was that four co-operative farms in north eastern Saskatchewan have folded up. It's easy to get a wrong impression from that.

The Saskatchewan government, with the co-operation and goodwill of such public organizations as the Canadian Legion and the farm associations, initiated co-operative farming ventures as a means of rehabilitating war veterans. On the whole the program has been a success. The four failures currently noted are due mostly to the unforeseeable difficulties arising before the farms had been solidly established.

There are two main objections to the ordinary type of individual farming on the prairies. One is that farm homes are too isolated for the women folk, and because of their isolation, lack the conveniences that seem to go with modern living. The other is that farming has become so mechanized that many individuals, especially those just starting out, cannot afford the expensive machinery that has to be used.

Co-operative farming was intended to get around these objections. The family homes are near together, in a little settlement, so that all can enjoy better facilities such as roads, school, power, and so on. And the menfolk, by pooling their machinery and working it long hours, can farm better and cheaper than they could individually.

Most of the many successful co-operative farms now in existence in Saskatchewan divide the land among the members, so that each has something all his own. That is a concession to the individualism so strong among farmers. Still there are some sociological problems to be worked out. Can the members or partners work more or less together without getting on each other's nerves? The answer seems to be that they can. But the idea is not quite out of the experimental stage.

This is a radical departure in farm living. It is a worthwhile trial. On something like it depends the survival of at least a segment of prairie agriculture.

WORK—STILL THE BEST BET

By T. W. PUE

The finest piece of advice we've heard handed out for a long time was given by a school principal to his graduating class. He told these promising youngsters who are setting out from High School not to take the job that promises the biggest salary right off the bat, but to choose a position in work that they like to do.

Many young men are taken in by offers of $10.00 to $20.00 a day pay roughnecking it in oil drilling crews, driving trucks and doing other types of work that require a minimum of skill. If these lads would make up their minds to continue with their education until they graduate in a work they will enjoy doing for work's sake, and not just for the immediate big pay, they will lead happier, fuller, more useful lives.

When I left high school I had no money with which to go to University and no way of earning any. Young men today can work their way through college by applying a little grit, elbow grease, and midnight oil in the right places and at the right time of year.

Trouble is today most of our school teachers are taken away with the idea of an education leading to a lifetime security program. In the last few years University graduates have been so much in demand that New York University's engineering student newspaper Quadrangle the other day sported a cartoon showing an employer waiting outside a student's office and the young man inside barking: "No, I'm not interviewing any more employers today."

Young men and women stepping out into a world in which their services are in such great demand may, if not prepared for it, fall flat on their faces if adversity hits.

ALGER WAS NO DOPE

There are more important angles to this business of making a living than just getting a job. Some of these concern holding a job after you've got one, and cutting down your chances of being fired in case business turns a trifle sour for your employer.

Under this head, the ideas of one Horatio Alger are still sound. Alger (1832-99) was a writer of boys' books—scads of them—in which the hero always won through to fame and fortune by working like a horse, being kind to the boss and as honest as Mr. Herbert Hoover (than whom they come no more honest), and never kidding himself that he could get something for nothing.

The Alger books had next to no literary merit. The ideas that underlay them have gone out of fashion with a lot of people in recent years.

Just the same, come the end of the present golden age for employment (as come it will, for all that), the young man or woman who has worked hard to please the management is likely to stay longer on the payroll than the one who has consistently acted as if he were doing management a great favor by collecting the periodic paycheck.

In other words, better take a job if it's handed to you on a silver platter, but immediately forget the platter and relentlessly give the job the best you've got.

EMPLOYMENT BETS

How about young people who aren't yet ready to begin earning their livings—those in high schools or the first or second year in college? What are the best employment bets for them a few years hence?

The National Association of Manufacturers (14 W. 49th St., New York 20, N. Y.) is an organization about which different people have different opinions. But at least the NAM has facilities for research in business opportunities and prospects all over the United States.

It recently put that equipment to work for the production of a most interesting and meaty booklet, called "Your Opportunities in Science." Copies have been sent to 60,000 junior and high school authorities, and others are being printed for free distribution to high school and college students.

What the NAM finds is that the wide field of science—electronics, biology, chemistry, the many branches of engineering, research, medicine, etc., etc.—in all likelihood offers the most and the best chances for young people today.

Science in one way or another enters into virtually everything Americans have and are. As the NAM booklet says, "today's pioneer—the scientist—finds new lands to explore in test tubes. His hunting is done with the microscope. He seeks new horizons in the atomic cyclotron."

Incidentally, most of these pioneers earn better and better livings for themselves and their dependents.

If you're a young person with the slightest leaning toward any sort of science, this NAM booklet is one thing to latch onto and read carefully. You can hardly fail to get some valuable tips from it—and it may steer you toward a full and satisfying lifetime career.

Just one tip of our own, though, if we may: Don't ever buy the notion that science is the be-all and end-all of life, and that there is no real knowledge or truth outside science. Fall victim to that idea (as too many scientists have done), and you'll turn into a warped, ossified and essentially ridiculous personality, no matter how brilliant your achievements may be.

Voice of the People

THUNDER OVERHEAD

Has some change been made at Edmonton Airport to send those giant airliners, with deafening roars, over the outlying communities at low altitudes? Are the planes too heavy to rise to a safe height, or is it the fault of the pilots? It's high time the Airport was moved out of Edmonton. The situation is getting unbearable.

HE TAKES THE REAR WHEEL

A recent Voiceer wanted to know where to use your best tires—on the front or rear wheels of your car. I say that if you have a blow-out in one of your rear tires, you still have control of your steering wheel, and can turn according to which rear tire blew out, thus avoiding a spin or upset. But a blow-out in a front tire, at a certain speed, is likely to pull the steering wheel out of your hands—and you take it from there. How do I know? Easy: I've had them both ways.

I got into an argument with my garage man. He says put two new tires on the front wheels. I say put them on the back—that's where you need the traction. Any Voiceer disagree with me? Edmonton. SUNDAY DRIVER.

Fly Control on the Farm

The most common farm flies are House flies, Stable flies and Horn flies. They reproduce very rapidly, breeding in all kinds of decayed material and filth. There seems to be no way of getting completely rid of these pests, but the practices recommended here will, if followed, keep them down to an insignificant number. To be effective, any fly control campaign must include (1) proper steps in sanitation, and (2) the wise use of chemicals.

Sanitation. Good sanitation is the backbone of fly control. Without it, you cannot control flies effectively, regardless of the chemical or chemicals you use. Sanitation includes: destroying garbage; cleaning barnyards, scraping them right down to hard ground; cleaning out hog pens, hen-houses and open cattle sheds; raking up and burning weeds and other farmyard refuse; treating outdoor privies with borax every day; and hauling out fresh stable manure to the field every day or two. A lot of work, yes, but necessary for best fly control results.

Chemicals. To control flies around the house, spray porches and doorways with Lindane or Chlordane. DDT will give satisfactory control where light infestations of house flies occur. As a spray for the dairy barn use Lindane or Methoxychlor. For other buildings Chlordane may be used instead of Lindane. Treat all places where flies roost, and repeat the applications every 3 to 5 weeks. Avoid contamination of feed and water with Lindane and Chlordane. Concerning cattle sprays, Methoxychlor is recommended for dairy cattle. It can also be used on beef cattle that are within 60 days of market. If the cattle will not be marketed for more than 60 days, then a DDT spray is recommended. No matter what chemical you use be sure and follow the directions and precautions of the manufacturer.

Farm fly control pays. It safeguards health, increases milk and meat production from livestock, and adds to the comfort of farm living.

75,000 FARMERS BORROW UNDER ACT, $255,000,000 LOANED SINCE 1945

Canadian farmers borrowed $85,000,000 in 1951 under the Farm Improvement Loans Act according to the Annual Report tabled in Parliament by the Honorable D. C. Abbott. This was an increase of nearly $22,000,000 over 1950. More than 75,000 farmers availed themselves of the facilities of the Act in 1951.

Since the inception of the Act in 1945, 286,000 loans have been made under the Act for a total amount of $255,000,000. Of this amount 60 per cent had been repaid by December 31, 1951. The loans are made by the banks directly to farmers with the Federal Government guaranteeing the banks against loss up to a maximum of 10 per cent of the total amount loaned by each bank. Losses paid to the banks in 1951 amounted to $6,499.84, and total losses during the first seven years of operations have been $26,230.30 or .01 per cent of the amount loaned.

The Farm Improvement Loans Act enables farmers to borrow money for a wide variety of purposes including the purchase of farm implements and livestock, the construction and repair of farm buildings and the clearing and breaking of land. The loans are obtained through the chartered banks at 5 per cent simple interest and terms of repayment are arranged to suit the operating conditions of the individual farmer. The maximum period of repayment is seven years.

As in previous years most of the loans are made in Western Canada. In 1951 71 per cent were made in the three Prairie Provinces.

FARM IMPLEMENTS AND TRUCKS

Loans obtained for the purchase of farm machinery and farm trucks amounted to $78,000,000 and covered the purchase of $137,000,000 worth of equipment. This represents 92 per cent of the total money borrowed for all purposes. Approximately three-fourths of these loans for machinery were borrowed by farmers of the three Prairie Provinces. Continued rapid mechanization is, therefore, evident in farming operations in the West. It is estimated that the banks financed through the Farm Improvement Loans Act 45 per cent of all new tractors and 60 per cent of all new combines purchased in Canada last year.

FARM BUILDING AND HOUSING

Loans for the construction, repair and alteration of farm homes and buildings increased nearly a million dollars over the corresponding period of 1950. There were 587 loans for the construction of new houses, 1,155 loans for repairs and alterations to existing buildings, including the installation of plumbing and heating systems, and 1,071 loans for utility buildings such as sheds and barns. Borrowing for all these purposes amounted to $3,400,000.

PURCHASE OF LIVESTOCK

During 1951 there were nearly 3,000 new loans made for the purchase of livestock. The amount borrowed was $2,750,000. This is a marked proportional increase from 1950 when 1,805 loans were made totalling $1,500,000. Ontario farmers borrowed more for this purpose than farmers of any other province. Nearly all loans were for milch cows and breeding stock.

CLEARING AND BREAKING

Loans for this purpose showed a decline from 1950. However, over $400,000 was lent to clear and break 37,000 acres of new land for cultivation. Since the inception of the act 375,000 acres have been brought into crop activity through Farm Improvement Loans. By far the largest percentage of loans for this purpose has been made in the West, chiefly in the northern sections of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The lending by provinces in 1951 is as follows:

	No.	Amount
B.C.	2,010	$ 2,070,467.54
Alta.	20,309	23,240,815.82
Sask.	23,272	27,876,923.08

Road Ban Basis May Be Revised

VULCAN — Highways Minister Gordon Taylor indicated the Alberta Government plans revising the basis used for setting road bans.

Damage to road beds would be the main consideration, the minister told a meeting which nominated Rev. Peter Dawson as Social Credit candidate in Little Bow in the next provincial general election.

Announcing the question of road bans is under review Mr. Taylor said he thinks the idea of the ban being based on weight instead of size probably would prove practical and feasible.

The minister added his department plans building black-top roads from the U.S. boundary as far north as there are people to be served. There would be asphalt laterals at frequent intervals.

The minister said the first north-south road is nearly a reality with a new road going to Peace River on a better route which is 145 miles shorter than the route now used.

Several laterals were under construction and the one through the Crows Nest Pass would be completed this year.

Alberta Forest Fire Threats Diminished

EDMONTON — All but two forest fires in northern Alberta now are out or under control.

The fires still burning out of control are in the Fort McMurray district, 250 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Three new fires were reported in the last 24 hours in the Lac la Biche area, but two are out and the third is under control.

A large fire that burned out of control for more than a week at Whitefish Lake, 200 miles north of Edmonton, has been extinguished.

Startling Facts About Canada

One of Wall Street's conservative investment firms calls Canada's industrial development in the last few years "The Biggest Business Story of the Decade." In his speech in Ottawa last January, the Rt. Honorable Winston Churchill said: "Upon the surface of the globe there is no more spacious and splendid domain than Canada open to the activity and genius of free men."

Seeding Ahead Of Last Year

Wheat seeding is practically completed and coarse grains well advanced with seeding, a week to 10 days ahead of last year, according to the crop report issued Monday by the Alberta Pacific Grain Co. Ltd. and Federal Grain Ltd.

Seeded acreages show a very small increase for wheat and barley, no change for oats and a decrease in flax and rye in comparison to last year.

In the northern portion of Alberta rain is needed. Wheat seeded averages 95 per cent, oats 65 per cent and barley 60 per cent.

In the Peace River block a general rain would be beneficial. Seeding has made rapid progress with 95 per cent of wheat sown, 75 per cent of the oats and 65 per cent of the barley.

More About The Coming Coronation

By N. J. W. ARCHER

Captain John Lindley-Marmion

Dymoke, the 34th holder of the Manor of Scrivelsby in Lincolnshire, England, will probably act as the Queen's Champion and will bear the Standard of England at her coronation next June. In olden times the King's (or Queen's) Champion rode into Westminster Hall on his charger and dressed in full armor, while the Sovereign to be crowned sat at dinner and, after three trumpet calls, declared that any man who denied the Monarch's right to the throne "lieth and is a false traitor". He then threw down his gauntlet as a challenge to the traitor to defend himself in single combat.

The office of the Champion dates back to feudal times and was given by William the Conqueror to Robert de Marmion of Scrivelsby. The present claimant to that honor is a direct descendant of Robert. He is 25 years of age and is an officer in the British Army.

One of the valuable items used in the Coronation ceremony is the Royal Sceptre. It is in much the same form as when first used at the Coronation of Charles II. It is in the form of a kind of sword and is made of gold, about three feet long, and heavily encrusted with gems and enamel. Originally the head of the sceptre was a very large spherical amethyst but in the early part of this century the head was remodelled to make room for the Culinan No. 1 Diamond, which is the largest cut diamond in the world. The huge amethyst is still mounted above the diamond.

At the present time the Royal State Coach, which is used only for Coronations, is being overhauled at the Royal Mews in readiness for next year's ceremony. The coach was built for George III by Sir William Chambers at a cost of 8,000 pounds, sterling. It is sometimes referred to as the Gold Coach as it is made of wood heavily encrusted with gold leaf. It weighs 9,000 pounds and is 24 feet long with a framework of gilded palm trees and a baroque roof. The side panels were painted by the artist, Giovanni Cipriani, who is also reputed to have done the panels of the State Chariot of the Lord Mayor of London. It is usually drawn by eight perfectly matched horses with their grooms dressed in golden livery.

$400 In Oil Shares Is Awarded Boy

EDMONTON — Keith Watters, who was awarded $100.00 when he found $6,990.00 which he promptly turned over to the police, has once again been rewarded.

This morning he received word that $400.00 had been paid into oil shares for him.

Mrs. Nancy Ferguson-Smith of Spruce Grove, to whom the money belonged, lost it late in May in down town Edmonton. Keith, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Watters, 11836 123 Street was walking along a lane with his mother when he picked up a grubby envelope containing the money. His mother immediately notified the police who, after several days, discovered the unconcerned loser.

The original $100.00 which the boy received will be used for his education. He is at present a student in Grade IV at Inglewood school.

Canadian manufacturers made 5.8 cents profits on each dollar of sales in 1951, down from 7.1 cents in 1950.

LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa,
I am a widow, thirty years old, and have a little girl of five. Since my husband died, I have been working as a stenographer and my mother takes care of my daughter. I live with my parents.
I met a man that I have fallen in love with about six months ago and he has asked me to marry him. But he suggested one thing that shocked me and I feel that I must give him up. He wants me to leave my daughter with her grandparents and the two of us have a home of our own.

What do you think of such an attitude?

M.G.L.

Answer:

I think that this man's love for you is a selfish one. If he truly loved you, he would understand that no mother could be happy to give up her child to someone else.
He would try to be a real father to this little girl, who has lost her own father for he would know that by doing so, he would be making the woman he professes to love, very happy.

He is probably a bit jealous too, and is not mature enough to understand that the love of a husband and the love of one's child there is room for both in any good woman's heart.

Unless he changes in this feeling of possession, I think, you would be wise in giving him up.
Try to throw the two of them together as much as possible, for most little girls are quite attractive and if he has never been around children very much, he may not know what joy they bring to a home.

In your case, you have your parents near to help when you have engagements in the evening but duty to a child comes before acquiring a new husband.

Louisa.

Do Not Probe To Remove Insect

Picnics and days out of doors sometimes result in a child with an insect in the ear. This can be serious if not removed at once. A drop or two of olive oil may float it out, but probing is dangerous.
A more simple remedy is to attract the insect by holding a

CHARTERED BANKS HAIL RETURN 'NORMAL, COMPETITIVE, BANKING'

MONTEBELLO, Que. — L. G. Gillett, President of The Canadian Bankers' Association, declared here today the chartered banks "welcome a return to normal, competitive banking" with the lifting of bank credit restrictions by the Bank of Canada a month ago.

In his address to the annual meeting of the Association, he noted that restrictions on both consumer credit and bank credit had been lifted in recent weeks. Both were "welcome steps, as they indicated a belief that inflation has been brought under some measure of control in Canada."

"I am sure I am speaking for the whole business community in saying that, just as everyone was prepared to co-operate speedily and completely with the government in its anti-inflation program, we welcome removal of restrictions and impediments to ordinary business practice as they become unnecessary or inadvisable."

"In applying the bank credit restrictions, the banks sought to further the national interest and now we welcome removal of restrictive competitive banking, so long an integral part of Canadian life. If the policy contributed to the lessening of inflationary pressures in Canada and helped to preserve the purchasing power of the consumer's dollar, the banks are content and amply repaid for the difficulties and inconveniences involved."

"From all this, it should not be gathered that all danger from inflation has been left behind. Far from it, but I will say this much we have beaten off its initial threat and stand better prepared for whatever the future may hold."

Mr. Gillett saw prospects for Canadian business over the next four months "made cloudy" by various uncertainties. But he believed that still active inflationary pressures would tend, at least temporarily, to be kept in "uneasy balance" by the opposing forces of deflation which had shown some signs of developing.

Mr. Gillett reserved judgment on the estimate of some observers that the decline in numerous raw material prices pointed to "an end of inflation and even a decline in business everywhere". Conceding that "they may well be right", he suggested that accelerated defence spending might offset the slackened demand for the products of some industries.

With inflation stayed off, at least temporarily, and tremendous plans afoot for private capital investment in the next few years. Mr. Gillett asserted Canadians had "every cause for confidence over the long pull". He cited figures of the investment programs, running into hundreds of millions of dollars, planned for the mining, pulp and paper, electrical, chemical, aluminium, oil and other industries, and commented:

"These figures of future capital investment are merely scattered examples of what lies ahead in Canadian development. They illustrate the basic fact that Canada has the greatest accumulation of undeveloped natural resources in the world and that Canada is on the threshold of spectacular progress and development, the opening of a dynamic era."

The Association head emphasized that it had been private enterprise that had "built Canada to its present dimensions and is laying plans for such marked development in the immediate future."

"It is the spirit of enterprise that is on the march in Canada today", he continued. "So much so, that it sets Canada apart from almost all other nations. It has given Canadians the second highest standard of living in the world and permitted this country of only 14 million people to do more, and in a shorter time, than any comparable nation."

"Our progress has been based on work, thrift, investment and enterprise, and if we hold to those principles—and are given peace—our future progress is assured."

Mr. Gillett took the occasion of the meeting to raise the question of how much longer it would be possible to avoid an increase in the rates of interest on bank lending, in the face of substantial rises in the costs of doing business. In this regard he said:

"We all know that unlike other countries, there has been no general increase in banking interest rates in Canada for many years, but in the face of steadily rising costs, we do not know how long this can continue."

Pointing out that the total of three items of banking cost—staff salaries, taxes and interest on savings deposits—had more than doubled between 1944 and 1951, he commented:

"In most businesses, when costs go up, selling prices follow, but that has not been true recently of interest rates in Canada. Lending rates have gone up in the United States, in Britain and in several other countries. We have tried to keep them from going up in Canada but, frankly, I do not know how much longer we can succeed."

In this connection Mr. Gillett emphasized that, contrary to opinions sometimes entertained, returns to bank stockholders were not high. "Unreal and ambiguous" estimates of 14 per cent and 16 per cent dividends were calculated on the nominal par value of shares. Actually, 1951 statistics showed an "exceedingly modest return" averaging between 4½ and 4 per cent in shareholders' equity investment, including the premium paid to buy most bank stock and the profits put back in the business as rest or reserve funds.

Mr. Gillett pointed also to the tremendous expansion of staff and operating facilities which the banks had had to undertake, in order to keep abreast of the demands for banking service from an increasing population, an expanding economy and newly developed areas of settlement. In the past 10 years, the number of chartered bank employees had increased by over 61 per cent, and the number of banking offices had increased by 486 to a total of 3,776 branches and sub-agencies. In the same period, Mr. Gillett noted average salary rates had been raised on a scale comparing favorably with the levels prevailing in similar fields, and early this year the banks had initiated the five-day week in selected branches to attract and retain a high calibre of employee. This had been necessitated, he said, because "we were losing trained, competent and well-paid employees to other institutions that were closed on Saturdays."

"We are grateful to the banking public for its acceptance of this innovation in Canada," Mr. Gillett added. "We have tried to minimize inconvenience to our customers by providing extra banking hours on Fridays in most of the branches closing Saturdays, particularly for making deposits and cashing pay cheques. I take this opportunity to acknowledge the splendid co-operation of bank customers in this attempt to benefit the working conditions of bank staffs."

Mr. Gillett reported that despite considerable publicity about bank hold-ups, there were fewer last year than in 1950 and there had been 45 convictions for bank robbery across Canada on top of 44 in the preceding year. Since January 1, 1950, the banks had paid out a total of $114,295 in rewards to citizens who had aided in apprehension of bank robbers, to police forces in recognition of outstanding efforts by their members, and in gratuities to widows of police officers and citizens killed in attempts to apprehend bank robbers.

THREE ALBERTANS RIDE OFF WITH WINNING TROPHIES AT 1952 RODEO

Saturday night saw the final performance of the 1952 Edmonton Rodeo entrants. With more than 90 cowboys competing for a purse of more than $9,000.00 and six trophies, the week long rodeo gave the fans a first class show. Three Canadian cowboys came out champions of three events while American cowboys took the other two.

The all-round winner was Wilf Gerlitz of Black Diamond. He was presented with the Henry Birks Challenge Trophy.

The saddle bronc winner was Ken Brower of Adan. Brower received the H. Kelly Co. trophy. Runners-up in this event were, George Aldoff, of Coleman, second, and Dan Templeton, Wenatchee, Wash., who tied with Bud Van Cleave, of Taber, for third.

Among the bareback riders, George Aldoff, of Coleman, won first place and the Jack Forman Trophy, followed by Vaden Ashbey of Gresham, Ore., Charlie Chick, of Gadsby, and Bill Tumelson, of Lewiston, Idaho.

Holding the first three places in the calf-roping were entrants from the southwestern United States. In first place was F. C. Stover, of Tularosa, New Mexico, who was presented with the Edmonton Sun Trophy. Second place was won by Gerry La Pam, of Los Angeles, California, while a brother of the first place winner, Bill Stover, was third. A Stettler entrant, Bill Collins, was fourth.

Harold Manderville, of Skiff, won the steer decorating and the Martin's Luggage and Leather-goods award. Entrant from Jonesboro, Arkansas, G. T. Jones, placed second, followed by Johnny McKay, of Black Diamond, and Brian Butterfield, of Ponoka.

Leading clown of the show, Buddy Heaton, who makes his home at Hugoton, Kansas, won first place and the CFRN Trophy in the Brahma bull riding. He was followed by Wilf Gerlitz, of Black Diamond, Lynn Wenbourne, of Taber, and Jackie Cook, of Cochrane.

The prize money was made up by the Exhibition Association and the entry fees. $6,000 of the $9,000 was provided by the Exhibition Association.

More than 4,000 spectators watched the exhibits of these daring riders and calf ropers at Saturday night's show. The number of people who saw this outstanding rodeo totaled 23,362. About 2,600 saw the Saturday matinee.

Following the evening performance, the Exhibition Association personnel were hosts to the contestants and their families. Refreshments were served on the mezzanine floor at the gardens.

Although this was the first time a rodeo has ever been held inside in Canada, it proved a very smart move on the part of the Association as the Edmonton district was thoroughly rained upon all week. Mr. James Paul is the Association manager while Herman Linder of Cardston, veteran rodeo showman and former world and North American champion cowboy, and who in his early days rode for Guy Weadick, "father" of the Calgary Stampede, was the organizer of Edmonton's 1951 and 1952 rodeos, each of which was declared a decided success!

Tea, Fashion Show Held

AIRDRIE—The Ladies Community Club in Airdrie was instrumental in sponsoring a tea and fashion show on June 12 in the hall. The exhibitors were mainly of wedding gowns modelled by members. These gowns dated as far back as 1870 and up to the present day. There was a good crowd in attendance to enjoy the modelling and also the program and tea.

Miss Joanne Conley's song was much appreciated.

Shower Held For Bride-Elect

CROSSFIELD—White wedding bells and gala pink and white streamers converging to the honored chairs of Ruth Hehr and her groom-elect, Lester Berreth, were suitable decorations in the Masonic Hall, on Friday, June 20, when the happy couple were feted at a miscellaneous shower. Wild roses were in profusion about the hall, which was filled to capacity with wellwishers. The conveners were Mrs. Anhorn and Mrs. N. Smith, ably assisted by willing helpers.

In a well-chosen song, Violet Anhorn introduced the "doctor" who, in a comedy act, took temperatures, etc., and recommended that a hospital be brought forth. It was then that a little doctor and nurse, Wallace Faas and Phyllis Miller, presented to the couple a miniature Holy Cross Hospital (where bride-elect had been employed), and many were the beautiful gifts it contained. The couple bespoke their sincere thanks.

A delightful program was presented and included the following artists: Vocal duets by Lorraine Faas and Helen Miller, Dorothy and Janet Anhorn, Edna and Irene Hehr; piano solos by Florence Hehr, Audrey Berreth, Margaret Crawford, Doris Spady; duets (piano) by groom's sisters; recitation by Glenda Hehr and Donna Hehr.

A delicious luncheon was served to all present.
